

REIMAGINING MODERN LIVING

Here's how Architect Simran Boparai redefines luxury living with a classic touch

Amidst the wave of retro revival, classical antiquity is experiencing a resurrection across aesthetics. Homes are undergoing a transformation, with a shift from purely structural design to a focus on incorporating vintage craftsmanship. Bridging this gap between historical grandeur and modernism, Architect Simran Boparai, the visionary behind Simran Boparai Archtelier, is redefining luxury living through the lens of neoclassical revival.

Beyond grand exteriors, Boparai's interiors are a masterclass in marrying timeless elegance with contemporary comfort. Her palette involves an interplay of bold and vibrant colours, complemented by bespoke furnishings and exquisite textures. From palatial estates and sweeping courtyards to interiors that boast timeless opulence through fresco-style brushstrokes and modern decor.

THE PHILOSOPHY BEHIND

Boparai's vision extends beyond giving tasteful makeovers to homes. Her commercial projects have elevated designer boutiques and jewellery stores showcasing intricate interiors with grand facades. She shared insights into her distinctive architectural approach, which centres on a meticulous process of concept development and design execution. "The process is the key to my unique perspective," she emphasised, underlining the significance of methodical planning in realising ambitious visions.

Her ethos for interior design and architecture seamlessly intertwines classical opulence with contemporary sophistication. Excelling in crafting cohesive spaces that resonate with cultural nuances, particularly of North India, Boparai creates a penchant for regal yet modern house plans with elements of the neo-renaissance period.

SPECIAL FEATURE

Simran Boparai

Deeply inspired by the works of Le Corbusier who transformed Chandigarh's urban planning, Simran expanded her operations into 'the city beautiful' and established a niche pan-india. Seeking to integrate a modern ethos with her neoclassical roots, her visions aim to blend the palatial dreams of the 18th century with modern design aesthetics. Her commitment to sustainability permeates through her designs, blending biophilic design elements with modular construction methods that explores the possibilities in contemporary architecture.

THE ROAD AHEAD

Looking ahead, Boparai envisions her firm to pioneer the world of architecture, creating spaces that inspire. Giving a stage to this congenial genre of creation, she envisions to expand globally and establish offices worldwide. By merging tradition with modernity and functionality with sustainability, she aims to build a legacy of architectural excellence. From grand residential estates to prestigious commercial spaces, her designs emblazon artisanal excellence throughout. As she continues to innovate, Boparai stands as a luminary in architecture and interior design, creating spaces that speak modernity with a hint of classic.
